In 1989 Auburn, California, Milton Albrecht sponsored the first Bowen seminar held outside of Australia. Through that seminar, he became the first Bowen Technique practitioner certified in North America, and in 1994, was chosen the first Bowen instructor not taught directly by Tom Bowen. Milton and his wife Deni founded Bowen Therapy International in 1997, to address the need for a US-based Bowen organization, and to promote beginning to advanced levels of Milton's unique interpretation of Tom Bowen's work. Based on his clinical practice with over 75,000 individuals from 1989 until his passing in 2003, Milton's progressive instruction manuals form the basis for all BTI classes.

During the beginning seminar, Level I - II, 12 lessons are demonstrated (lecture and hands-on), encouraging student participation. Emphasizing comprehension of body language, the class learns how Tom Bowen's philosophy adapts to each individual client. Students receive a manual written by Milton, and a 28-hour merit diploma for those completing the class. Graduates are capable of doing basic Bowen therapy, and qualify for the intermediate level.

The Level III "certification" course consists of both written and practical exams, corrected and critiqued in class. Also included in this 2 day, 14-hour class are additional lessons and client-based exercises. Those passing attain certification and all students receive a diploma designating 14-hours. All seminar materials were developed by Milton Albrecht, as part of his complete Bowen therapy educational program.

Level IV is also a 2-day, 14-hour class where theory and philosophy is discussed deeply, and students are taught how to individualize Bowen to each client. Lessons pertaining to deep sciatica, heart/circulatory problems, migraine/headache issues are included. This seminar consists entirely of Milton's contributions to Bowen therapy, and is widely regarded as his most important work.
